Making Breastfeeding Work

Providing support to new mothers at work is good for health and good for business! Fremont County Public Health is available to provide support to help your business comply with Colorado and federal laws and improve your bottom line.

It's Good for Business

Hundreds of companies across America provide lactation support program as part of their family-friendly benefit platform.

They've learned that lactation accommodations at work produce a 3-to-1 return of investment due to:

- Lower health care costs due to healthier babies and moms

 Mutual of Omaha found that their newborn health care costs are three times less when employees participate in the lactation program. They save $2,146 for each employee!
- Reduced rate of absenteeism due to infant illness (among both mothers and fathers)

A major insurance company, CIGNA, found a 77% reduction in lost work time since babies who receive their mother's milk are healthier. The company saves more than $60,000 per year in lower absenteeism rates.

- Lower turnover rates
 - A 9-company study found that the average return-to-work rate is 94% when a lactation program is provided.
- Improved employee productivity and loyalty

Many companies report that their employees are more productive and loyal when they provide women with lactation support, such as time and space to express milk while at work.

It's the Law

In 2008 Colorado lawmakers passed the Workplace Accommodation or Nursing Mothers Act that requires employers to make breastfeeding accommodation in the workplace for the first 2 year so of an employee's child's life by providing:

- Time (unpaid or paid break and /or meal time) to breastfeed or pump
- Private space, other than a restroom, for the purpose of expressing milk at work
